What Is eLearning Commons (eLC)?

eLearning Commons is a commercial virtual learning environment that is used by UGA for electronic learning. The flexibility of the course design tools makes this environment appealing to both the technical novice and to the experienced developer of online courses. Instructors can add to their eLC courses various interactive tools such as discussion boards and live chat tools, along with content such as syllabi, class notes, quizzes, and grade postings.

- For answers for the most commonly encountered problems or issues, see the Center for Teaching and Learning eLearning Commons Support website.
- For eLC course requests (instructor access, course groups, non-Athena eLC course creation), fill out the appropriate form on the eLC course requests page.

Related Articles

- Where is the eLC course I'm taking? (Students)
- Why am I receiving a directory error message when logging into eLC?
- How do I access courses from the old version of eLC?
- Why am I getting an "Session Already Active" error message in eLC?
- What Is eLearning Commons (eLC)?